Plaintiffs respectfully ask that this Court promptly issue an order remanding the case to district court for further proceedings in light of the Supreme Court's recent decision. Am. Hosp. Ass'n v. Becerra, No. 20-1114 (S. Ct. June 15, 2022). The Supreme Court issued a certified judgment on July 18, 2022, and this Court subsequently recalled the mandate from the district court.

The Supreme Court held that the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) unlawfully reduced Medicare reimbursement rates for drugs acquired under the "340B" program as part of the Outpatient Prospective Payment System (OPPS) rules for 2018 and 2019. While this case has been on appeal (and outside the district court's jurisdiction), HHS has issued OPPS rules for 2020, 2021, and 2022 with the exact same reduced reimbursement rates for 340B drugs that the Supreme Court has now held unlawful.¹ The reduced rate under the 2022 OPPS rule remains in effect today, despite being plainly unlawful under the Supreme Court's recent ruling.

Plaintiffs ask this Court to remand the case to district court promptly so that Plaintiffs can, among other things, immediately (1) move the district court to grant their unopposed motion to file a supplemental complaint adding challenges to the 2020, 2021, and 2022 rules to this case, and (2) request that the district court, on an expedited basis, order HHS to stop unlawfully underpaying for 340B drugs pursuant to the 2022 OPSS rule that is currently in effect. Every day that the reduced 340B rate under the 2022 OPSS rule remains in effect, HHS is drastically underpaying claims for reimbursement for 340B drugs, in direct violation of its statutory obligations as determined by the Supreme Court. Plaintiffs understand that the parties may disagree regarding what if any action the district court should take with respect to the 2022 OPSS rule. But regardless, speedily presenting that issue to the district court is crucial given that the 2022 OPSS rule is currently in effect and results in unlawful underpayments for 340B drugs every day.

For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court promptly issue an order remanding this case to district court for further proceedings in light of the Supreme Court's recent decision. The government does not oppose this motion.
